Read the passage carefully and answer questions 19 to 27.

Tan Tock Seng was born in a humble family. He was quite poor. However, he was very eager to succeed. Born in Malaysia in 1798, he came to Singapore to find work.

As a young man, he was good at doing business. He would buy fresh vegetables and chickens from the countryside, and cycle long distances on his bicycle to sell them in the marketplace in town. He could not afford to take a ride on the rickshaw. Walking, or 5 even running, would take too long. It was a tough life, but he was determined to succeed.

Very soon, the hardworking and thrifty man did well enough to buy a shophouse. With time, he also bought land and more shophouses, and rose from rags to riches.

Despite his wealth, he cared about the poor and needy. He saw that many workers from China were not fairly treated by the rich people who employed them. He gave 10 generously to the needy and donated money to build a hospital.

Since then, Tan Tock Seng Hospital has been providing treatment for people from all walks of life. The poor and needy were appreciative of his help as they did not have to worry about their hospital bills. The hospital provided affordable and basic medical treatment for all. Till today, the hospital remains true to the goals and aspirations of its 15 founder.
